

Free support:

There are two support communities where support is provided for free. These are very active support communities and you will often get an answer to your question in just a few minutes. You do not need to be a paid Liberty BASIC customer to get help from either these two online venues:

- Official Liberty BASIC Support Forum on Yahoo
- Liberty BASIC Community Forum on Conforums

Liberty BASIC Programmer's Encyclopedia:

In addition to these two support sites, you should check out the wealth of information and material available from the Liberty BASIC Programmer's Encyclopedia:

- Liberty BASIC Programmer's Encyclopedia

Paid support:

If you buy a copy of Liberty BASIC, you also benefit from email support. Always include your order information when making an email support request!

- support@libertybasic.com

Support Tips:

- Don't forget to mention what versions of Liberty BASIC and Windows you use!
- If you have a helpful small code example, include it in your request!
